Your Friends at

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

It is my pleasure to welcome you to Belfast, the historic and scenic capital of Northern Ireland where over the next three days we'll blend exceptional cultural and culinary experiences with the thought-provoking discussions about issues facing global gaming for which IAGA is so well known. I'm thrilled that you've joined us for our 40th International Gaming Summit in such a remarkable and hospitable location, and I hope you'll take full advantage of everything we have planned, as our Irish hosts will showcase the best of what their city and its surrounding region has to offer.

Of course, at the heart of this week's events is our three-day conference, and its agenda addresses so many critical issues our industry is facing, including an in-depth look into potential regulatory changes happening in the Republic of Ireland and across the United Kingdom, discussions around threats we face from behaviors like match fixing and financial crime, and insightful roundtables from industry executives and regulators. Our dedicated Conference Planning Committee members volunteered their time and efforts to develop each session, and I hope you'll join me in thanking them for putting together such a compelling program.

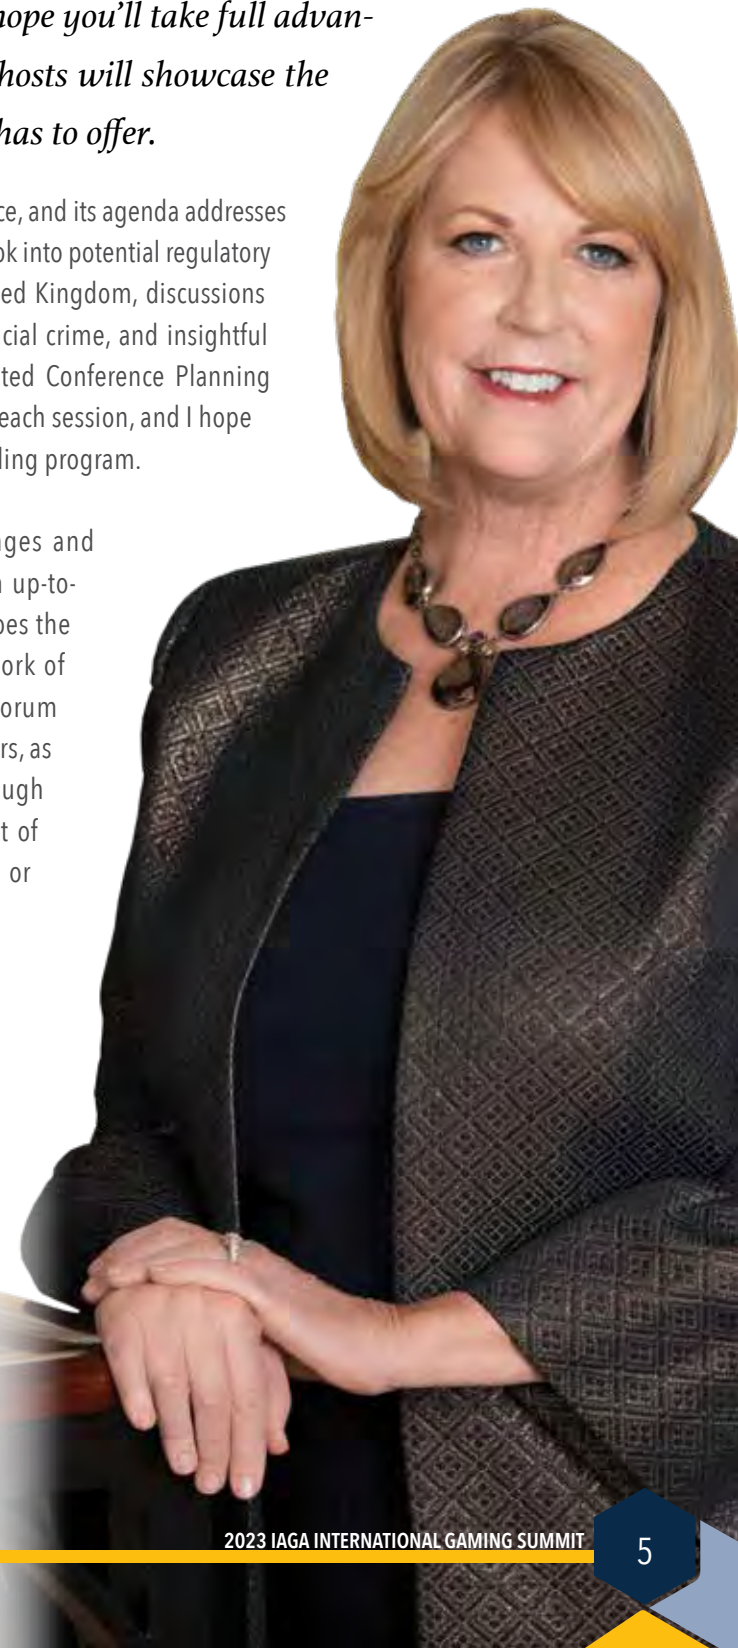

As gaming becomes more diverse and confronts new challenges and opportunities, the role IAGA plays in providing the industry with up-to-date discussions about key issues becomes more important, as does the opportunity we provide for you to build and develop your network of industry resources. IAGA is committed to providing an ongoing forum for both. I encourage you to take advantage of everything IAGA offers, as we couldn't fulfill our mission of "connecting expert advisors through shared experiences and education to influence the advancement of global gaming" without the active engagement of our members or the financial support of our sponsors.

If you'd like to get involved, please contact me, any of my fellow officers, or our Executive Director Kirsten Clark and join us in our efforts to expand our reach through future IAGA events around the globe. I hope you enjoy your time in Belfast and the opportunity you'll have to blend deepening your knowledge about the industry with exploring the city, and at the conclusion of our Summit feel that your time here was well-spent. Thanks for joining us!

Sincerely,

Ellen Whittemore, IAGA President

1:30 -1:45 p.m. Grey / Illegal Markets in the US: An Overview
Bill Miller, President and CEO, American Gaming Association
Illegal and unregulated gambling is pervasive in the U.S. despite the recent spread of legal gaming. The American Gaming Association (AGA) is focused on stopping illegal gambling by spurring law enforcement to go after these bad actors, partnering with lawmakers and regulators to minimize their damage, and educating consumers on the dangers of illegal gambling. AGA President and CEO Bill Miller will share the challenges and opportunities posed by going after the $500 billion illegal market.

1:45 – 2:45 p.m.

Grey Market Exposure and Suitability Under Scrutiny: How Grey Can You Go?

Continued M&A activity and market consolidation in the industry and the expansion of new US markets places the foreign activities of operators and suppliers under the microscope, highlighting the need for a robust approach to the legal and regulatory risks presented by grey market gaming. Following industry news about activities in unregulated and illegal markets, this panel will consider the risks attached to grey market exposure, the potential adverse consequences for businesses and investors, the status of grey markets in key markets in the US, EU and UK, protection strategies and the risk of the black market including the fallout for consumer protection and responsible gambling.

In Their Own Words: The Regulatory Perspective on Current Issues

At nearly every gaming conference, industry experts share their thoughts on the minutiae of what gaming regulators, think, say and do. In this session, we'll instead ask top regulators to share their thoughts on important issues like whether standardisation or harmonisation is all but a dream for those managing multi-jurisdictional compliance. They'll consider how they can work together with industry and other regulators to improve gambling regulation in 2023 and beyond and discuss the obstacles they face when trying to keep pace with innovation and technology advancements. Our distinguished panel will also look at key trends they've followed over the past 12 months and consider what the next 12 months might hold.

Moderator: William Downey, Shareholder, Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck

Panel: Marcus Fructer, Administrator, Illinois Gaming Control Board
Todd Grossman, General Counsel, Massachusetts Gaming Commission
Jason Lane, President, IAGR and Chief Executive, Jersey Gambling Commission

LEGAL ETHICS SESSIONS

Wednesday • 9 a.m.
Thursday • 2:30 p.m.

Wednesday: Operationalizing Privacy – The View from Both Inside the Organization and Outside Legal Counsel
Presented by: Nancy Ramirez Ayala, Esq., Vice President of Legal for Rush Street Interactive
Jordan L. Fisher, Esq., Partner, Constangy, Brooks, Smith & Prophete, LLP

The data security and privacy regulatory landscape is evolving quickly, requiring specific expertise to identify and address business and legal risks. This is especially true for global gaming organizations, many of which collect, process, and store various types of information, including personal information. Our panel will provide attendees with a high-level organizational framework for managing key areas related to developing a robust data security and privacy by design strategy while addressing the changing legal and regulatory landscape with business growth and innovation in mind. Providing both an in-house and outside legal counsel perspective, we will discuss the importance of identifying, prioritizing, and assessing unique vulnerabilities to gaming organizations, including a review of the evolving international and US state privacy regulatory requirements and key factors for third-party management. We will also discuss the importance of documentation relating to information privacy, security, risk management, ethical considerations, and human resources. We will also provide attorneys with an overview of the legal requirements and industry guidelines that govern law firms and attorneys as they grapple this ever-changing landscape and provide a review of ethics in action. Attendees will walk away with a practical understanding of how to involve key stakeholders at various points in the compliance program development process and the importance of understanding the balance of business operations and data security and privacy requirements as it relates to their organization, employees, attorney ethical obligations, and the overall data security and compliance culture within an organization.

Thursday: Ethics 101

Our second ethics session this year will focus on basic ethical considerations including confidentiality of officer / director / employee information between the company and regulator, considerations given multi-jurisdictional practice guidelines especially when market expansion is occurring and the obligation to be candid with the regulator.

Moderated by Edward Winkofsky, a Shareholder with Greenberg Traurig and the Chair of the firm's Gaming Practice, the panelists include:

- Peter Czegledy, Partner, Aird and Berlis
- Dr. Simon Planzer, Partner, Planzer Law

CLE CREDIT FAQ

We have applied for Continuing Legal Education (CLE) credit in multiple jurisdictions to support our participating attorneys. To ensure you receive credit in the areas where we are / will be approved, don't forget to sign the attendance sheet located at the registration desk and note the below:

Q: How do I get CLE credit for my attendance?

A: CLE sign-in sheets are available at the registration table, and to receive credit, you must sign in for each area where you are requesting credit.

Q: When will I receive my credit?

A: The timing for awarding credit is up to each approved jurisdiction. Following the completion of the International Gaming Summit, and upon receiving notification that we have been approved, we will provide attendance information in each jurisdiction where we report attendance directly.

Q: How does IAGA determine where to apply for CLE credit?

A: We apply for CLE credit in each jurisdiction where International Gaming Summit registered delegates have indicated they would like credit. Additional submissions will be made upon request and in conformance with state rules.

Q: Where is credit for the International Gaming Summit already approved?

Leveraging Transformative Technologies for Gaming Growth

Dan Carpenter, Global Head of Game Tech Sales, AWS

It’s an exciting time for the Gaming industry, as explosive growth and regulatory changes are reshaping and expanding the industry as we know it. Technology is playing a key role in deriving new player insights, enhancing responsible gaming, and ensuring compliance across EMEA and the United States. Dan Carpenter’s Global Game Tech organization at Amazon Web Services (AWS) is working with over 500 of the world’s leading operators, providers, social gaming, sports, and media companies. Dan will highlight where he sees technology transforming the gaming landscape. Data analytics, innovative hardware solutions, and machine learning are enabling highly personalized player experiences, better insights to detect fraud, and addressing evolving compliance needs across EMEA and the United States. AWS solutions are also being used to automate identification of problematic play to reduce harm, and reduce carbon footprints. AWS is innovating with organizations of all sizes to leverage cloud technology to build the future of Gaming.

Dan Carpenter's is Global Head of the Game Tech Sales Organization for AWS. With his forward-looking leadership, he has been instrumental in growing the vertical into a global business covering the entirety of the video game industry and the gaming space. A ten-year veteran of AWS, Dan is helping the world's top gaming companies to innovate using advanced technology to build the next generation of games. Dan leads an organization of customer-obsessed sales professionals responsible for Games account management and go-to-market initiatives. As strategic partners, the Game Tech Sales team looks around corners and develops recommendations to sustain and accelerate customer success. Millions of customers—including the fastest-growing startups, largest enterprises, and leading government agencies—are using AWS to lower costs, become more agile, and innovate faster. AWS’ differentiated solutions empower game designers to design, build, scale, operate and sell the most dynamic and engaging experiences on the planet. Dan’s team is making the impossible possible by partnering closely with customers to enable them to build nearly any new experience they can imagine.

Outside of work, Dan is passionate about giving back to the local Seattle community. He coaches youth athletes for the non-profit Eastside Lions Rugby team, whose mission is to develop and foster life-long physical and mental well-being. He is also Chairman of the Information Systems Advisory Board of the Washington State University Carson College of Business.

Amazon Web Services (AWS) is the world's most comprehensive and broadly adopted cloud platform, offering over 200 fully featured services from data centers globally that support millions of customers including the fastest-growing startups, largest enterprises and leading government agencies. Architected to be the most flexible and secure cloud computing environment available today, its core infrastructure is built to satisfy the security requirements for the military, global banks and other high-sensitivity organizations. This is backed by a deep set of cloud security tools, with 230 security, compliance and governance services and features. AWS supports 90 security standards and compliance certifications, and all 117 AWS services that store customer data offer the ability to encrypt that data.

WEDNESDAY AGENDA

Huddle Up: Continuing Collaboration with American Professional Sports

Thursday, June 22
10:05 – 10:30 a.m.

Jonathan D. Nabavi, Vice President of Public Policy and Government Affairs, National Football League (NFL)

As sports betting continues to expand in the United States, the National Football League, other professional sports, operators, and regulators collaborate to protect the integrity. Jonathan Nabavi shares how the NFL approaches the sports betting ecosystem and how stakeholders must address challenges and opportunities together.

Jonathan Nabavi serves as Vice President of Public Policy and Government Affairs for the National Football League (NFL) and is responsible for advising on all aspects of its public policy and legislative agenda and represents the League on a wide range of issues before Congress, the Administration, and other federal and local government agencies. Prior to joining the NFL, he served in a variety of senior congressional staff and political roles, most recently as Majority Counsel for the United States Senate Committee on the Judiciary, providing strategic counsel to the Chairman. He previously served as Counsel for the House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform and as a senior adviser for multiple Members of the House of Representatives. A graduate of Pennsylvania State University, Jonathan was an academic All-Big Ten member of the Penn State football team while earning a degree from the University's Schreyer Honors College.

The National Football League (NFL) is comprised of 32 US-based franchises that compete each year to win the Super Bowl, the world's most famous annual sporting event. Attracting fans from around the world, the NFL developed the model for the successful modern sports league, including extensive revenue sharing, competitive excellence, strong franchises across the board, and national distribution. Outside of the League's headquarters in New York City, the NFL expands nationwide with NFL Media based in Culver City, CA, and NFL Films based in Mt. Laurel, NJ. Satellite offices also operate in Atlanta, Washington DC, and Chicago. International offices are in the UK, China, Mexico & Canada. Founded in 1920, the NFL developed the model for the successful modern sports league, including extensive revenue sharing, competitive excellence, strong franchises across the board, and national distribution. Learn more about the NFL's history by visiting <http://www.nfl.com/history>.

10:30 – 11:30 a.m. Match Fixing: When the Uncertain Becomes Certain

Encouraged by recession fears, lingering pandemic concerns and other challenges, organized crime has found lower divisions of football, tennis, basketball and other sports as a source of income. These criminals often involve an individual link – i.e., a former player or coach - with active players, coaches or even executives of a club to ensure a certain outcome of a match to maximize a bet's financial return. And as sport develops in our digital world, new means of sport manipulation are paralleled by evolving tools to catch them. Featuring representatives from betting and gaming who will address match fixing, fraudulent player behavior and the negative reputational and economic impact they have on sports betting, our panel will shed light on the growing threat match fixing presents and discuss what the global gaming industry can do to address the negative effects of match fixing.

Moderator: Dr. Brett Abarbanel, Ph.D., Executive Director, University of Nevada, Las Vegas (UNLV) International Gaming Institute
Panel: Santiago Asensi, Managing Partner, Asensi Abogados
 Matt Fowler, Director of Integrity, IBIA

 Steve Paine, Director and Co-Founder, Evolve Sports Integrity

11:30 – 12:30 p.m. “As online gambling grows, so does the financial crime risk:”
a look at financial crime detection and prevention best practices

With extensive anti-money laundering compliance programs rigidly followed by bricks and mortar operators to ensure compliance with government requirements, the attention is now shifting to whether current measures used to detect online financial crime and fraud are sufficient to handle online gambling's rapid expansion. Featuring financial crime experts from the US, UK and EU, this panel will consider whether the boom in online gambling across the US creates opportunities for criminals to launder money or engage in other criminal acts like fraud. Next, the panelists will reflect on lessons learned in the UK and across Europe, with emerging best practices that could be applied in the US. Wall Street Journal, 8/29/22.*

Moderator: Bob Boyle, Senior Manager- Assurance Services / Forensic & Integrity Service, Ernst & Young (EY)
Panel: Gabrielle Angle, Director – Government Relations & Licensing, GeoComply
 Alex Costello, Vice President – Government Relations, American Gaming Association

THURSDAY AGENDA

1-2 p.m.

All about the money: innovations in cashless gaming and payment technology

Over the past year, major strides have been made in how players are allowed to pay for gaming, entertainment and resort services, signaling a radical shift in the way global gaming operators can approach financial transactions. This shift in technological capabilities, along with a favorable shift in regulatory and network environments, is revolutionizing the "money" side of the business with game-changing efficiencies, tighter controls and higher player visibility. This diverse panel will discuss the ups and downs of these advancements, considering potential innovations like mobile wallet and cashless solutions that could be applied seamlessly across jurisdictions if regulatory alignment and approval were achieved.

Moderator: Jennifer Carleton, Chief Legal Officer, Sightline

Panel: Patrick Bland, Chief Technology Officer, Acres

Mark Hemmerle, Vice President - Gaming & Compliance Counsel, Shift4

Caroline Torrisi, Deputy General Counsel, Massachusetts Gaming Commission

Barrie VanBrackle, Partner, Latham Watkins

2-2:30 p.m.

The Expansion of Free-to-Play Gaming and Real Money Skill Contests

The expansion of unregulated digital games in North America continues to create legal and regulatory issues for the US gaming industry. During this presentation, Bill will discuss how peer-to-peer skill game contests, freemium gaming (a/k/a "social casinos"), daily fantasy sports variants, and online sweepstakes remain unregulated, have self-regulated and in some ways have attracted civil litigation. He will also discuss the status of Gambling Loss Recovery Act claims in the United States and regulatory interventions as to certain unregulated products and will cover the status and impact of the Coffee v. Google videogame loot box case, the Fortnite settlement, the Apple/Google/Facebook "Simulated Casino" MDL and other developments under Section 230 of the Communications Decency Act on the freemium gaming app industry and videogame microtransactions.

IAGA GOVERNANCE

About IAGA	58
IAGA Officers	60
IAGA Board of Trustees.....	62
New Counselor Appointment	67
IAGA Counselors	69

Since it was founded in 1980, the International Association of Gaming Advisors (IAGA) has provided a relevant, collaborative forum for discussing key issues that affect global gaming today. Supported by a membership that includes the industry's leading attorneys, senior executives, financial advisors, regulators, consultants and academics, our purpose is to connect expert advisors through shared experiences and education to influence the advancement of global gaming.

Originally established as the National Association of Gaming Attorneys (NAGA), IAGA was founded in 1980 in Nevada by several notable gaming attorneys to create an association that would "unite in common organization those professionally engaged in the gaming industry, to facilitate negotiations in the gaming industry and protect and promote the mutual interests of the corporation's members and to promote and encourage education in the gaming industry." The association soon drew the attention of gaming attorneys beyond Nevada who wanted to support a forum where industry legal issues could be addressed, and NAGA's membership grew to include attorneys from the United States, the United Kingdom, France and other international areas where gaming was legally regulated. As a result, and to recognize the organization's growing international membership, in 1985 NAGA evolved into the International Association of Gaming Attorneys (IAGA) and held its first international conference in Monte Carlo.

As IAGA's annual conferences expanded beyond Europe and the US, reflecting the industry's globalization and a growing international footprint, the issues and strategies IAGA addressed required more than just legal expertise. So, the association began including professionals from the industry's financial and operational segments. To better reflect this expanded focus, in 2007 IAGA's name was changed to the International Association of Gaming Advisors, and its membership now includes a wide range of industry financial experts, legal advisors, casino executives, regulators, consultants and educators from around the world.

Together, the industry experts that make up IAGA today meet throughout the year to discuss the key issues affecting global gaming. The association and its members also actively participate in a wide range of activities focused on expanding the expertise and professionalism of the gaming industry, and encourage ongoing collaboration between the industry's legal, finance, operational, educational and regulatory advisors. As such, our members are actively engaged in shaping the future of the industry and, through our conferences and collaborative opportunities, all members gain access to the collective heartbeat of the business.

Counselor Appointment

IAGA is pleased to announce that Laura McAllister Cox was appointed as a Counselor in June 2022 to recognize her long-term dedication to IAGA and its goals. We are thrilled to honor her as part of the 2023 Summit.

"I am writing to you today to nominate Laura McAllister Cox as a Counselor of the International Association of Gaming Advisors. Pursuant to our Bylaws, the Board of Trustees of IAGA may elect IAGA members as Counselors based upon significant contributions to the goals and activities of IAGA.

Under our IAGA Bylaws, the criteria for membership in the Counselors of IAGA are "participation in IAGA, service to IAGA or to the gaming industry, past service on the Board of Trustees of IAGA, or active sponsorship of IAGA's programs and continued association with the officers, Trustees, and Counselors of IAGA." Laura certainly not only meets but exceeds each of these criteria. Laura has served as a Trustee of IAGA and in numerous officer roles, including as President when we held our Annual Conference in Macau in 2018. In addition, she has volunteered her time and talents to organize conferences, moderate and serve on panels, raise funds and enlist sponsorships, and recruit new members to our organization. She is an exemplary member of IAGA and is most deserving of the honor of being designated a Counselor."

Sincerely,
